Model Bakery's Quaker Maxims.

If so thou beest a seller of milk, fasten not thy cow at milking time too near the pump; lead not thyself into temptation. Trade not a good horse; but if thou hast a poor one, and another should desire it, frustrate not his wish; do unto others as they would do unto you.

If thee goes to this Fair know thy Horse. If he be not fast, make him fast in front of Model Bakery.

If one should smite thee upon one cheek, turn to him the other, first taking thy staff in thy hand to sustain thee.

If a neighbor should say to thee, "Friend, thou hast there some fine fat fowls," suspect him not; but lock thy chicken yard at sundown and leave thy dog unchained.

When in Akron and thou feel'st faint and weary, guide thyself to Model Bakery; thy inner man needs replenishing.

In courtship let thy conduct be discreet; better to end with a preacher's fee than a lawyer's bill.

One dollar in the bank is worth two which thou couldst make by buying something thou hast no need of.

When thee needs Bread thou shouldst strive to reach the Model Bakery.

Know thyself, but do not try to know all about a woman. Solomon with all his wives failed in this.

Raise not thy voice above others in singing the psalms; it is not always the loudest voice that carries the furthest; besides, why bring suspicion upon thyself?

Thou and thy children and thy children's children and thy neighbor's children's children will do thee proud if thee will lead them to the Model Bakery for the good things of life. Meals only 25c.

BOLD

Attempted to Rob an Erie Passenger.

One Ruffian Held His Arms While Two Others Searched Him.

Mrs. Chas. R. Morgan of 133 South Maple st., has received a letter from her father, Tobias Stahlheber of Ashland, who visited her during the Akron Street Fair.

In the letter he says that an attempt was made to rob him, while on the Erie train, which leaves Akron shortly after 6 o'clock. He left Akron Saturday evening and the train had not been running a minute when three ruffians tried to take his money. One approached him from the rear and held his arms tightly. The other two searched him, but did not get his wallet as it was in his inside vest pocket. The three fellows ran out of the car when Mrs. Stahlheber gave an outcry. They jumped off near McCoy st.

ONLY GENIUS

Is That of Perseverance and Hard Work.

Thrift and Enterprise and the Relation of Each to the Other.

The address on "Thrift and Enterprise," delivered by Mr. P. E. Werner before present and former pupils of Hammell's Business college, at the college Friday night, was well attended. Mr. Werner's talk was of a very instructive nature.

He spoke of the relation of thrift to enterprise and described each. The speaker remarked on the possibilities of youth, and seemed to be of the opinion that the only genius is the genius of perseverance and hard work.

"Lewis Miller is an example of genius," said he. "Mr. Miller, in conjunction with John R. Buchtel, founded the Bukeye factory, starting without means or education, yet by will power, perseverance, honesty and hard work, succeeded. Many and practical were the points Mr. Werner developed in his talk, and the audience was very appreciative."
